AUDIENCE COMMENTS ON "THE TRIAL OF MARY DUGAN"

Zay Smith, director of "Claudia" and other V. P. plays starred as the outstanding actor in "The Trial of Mary Dugan" at Palos Village Hall last Friday and Saturday. His badgering of the defense witnesses and the defendant made the audience wish to strangle him but all agreed that he played his difficult part to perfection.

There were also comments on the fine acting of Fern Myrup as the Folies Girl who gave the low down on the sugar daddy racket, Pat Mungoven as Mrs. Rice, the murdered man's widow came in for much praise as did Ruth Valentine as the French maid. Dick Valentine had a double part as a negro elevator operator and an effeminate taylor. Walter Roney and Neil Myrup as the defense attorneys minded one of their good work as opposing lawyers in "Night of January 14th".

The play is mainly about the plight of the Folies Girl, Mary Dugan, very ably played by Peg Gibbons. She is accused of murdering her married lover. The evidence presented against her by the zealous D. A. is all against her in the first act. Whether she is guilty or who did commit the crime cannot be revealed at this time as the play has yet to go on stage December 14 and 15.

Technical Sergeant Donald R. Mason, 18037105, Air Corps, (then Staff Sgt.) distinguished himself as Photo Non Commissioned Officer by his meritorious conduct in direct support of combat operations against the enemy between the dates of 17 June 1944 and 7 November 1944. Working without a commissioned officer's guidance, he had full and complete charge of all camera installation and maintenance in the aircraft, in addition to the development of the prints. Victory Dinner May Become Annual Event

A unique and decidedly original program honoring the returned service men of Mokena was sponsored by the Young People of the St. John's Evangelical church last Friday night in the parlors of the church appropriately entitled "A Victory Dinner".

A very delicious dinner was served by the mothers of the young people's group following which a community sing was featured. In addition Jack and Joan Martie rendered two instrumental numbers. Miss Phyllis Gustafson of Joliet, leading lady in the Joliet Township High school play "Naughty Marietta" sang a number of very delightful vocal solos in a very captivating manner.

At the close of the program, Wilbur Mancke who had served as assistant to a Chaplain while in England during the war, took over as Master of Ceremonies and did an admirable job of it. He gave a brief and colorful resume of the part each serviceman present had played in the war, giving his official title, name and number of his outfit and what action he was in. As the name of the service man was called he would arise. Among the entire group of service men, there was one WAC, Miss Judith Warnack, who saw overseas service. She had been stationed in Manila.

The single and married service men who were present were: Chas. Hostert, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Schindler, Mr. and Mrs. August Long, Robert Liess, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Ahlborn, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Roberts, Fred Bettenhausen, Herbert Bixler, Alfred Maue, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lauffer, Mr. and Mrs. Dave McMillan, Mr. and Mrs. Delano Wessels, Clarence Werner, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Mancke, Judith Warnack, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Hacker, Mr. and Mrs. John Marti, Fred Clark, Ellsworth McGovney, Wilbur Mancke.

Mr. Mancke also called attention to the fine work done by the local Women's Service Club in sending Christmas and birthday boxes and gifts to the boys in service. He also pointed out how much it meant to the boys to receive The News Bulletin giving them the news not only of home, but of the surrounding communities.

The program was climaxed with an interesting address by Rev. George W. Knapp of St. Louis, Mo., a former army chaplain and one time resident of Manhattan and buddy of the Master of Ceremonies.

Rev. Wm. Riemann, pastor of St. John's opened the program with a few remarks and at the close asked how many of those present would like to have a similar dinner next year and the response in favor was unanimous.

As the affair was held on December 7th marking the 4th year since the attack on Pearl Harbor, it would be a very appropriate way to observe this event by holding an annual dinner and get together of all the service men of the Mokena community and making it a Community project.

EXALTING CHRIST IN THE LIFE OF THE NATION

LESSON TEXT: Isaiah 9:2, 3, 6, 7; Luke 1:26-33.
GOLDEN TEXT: For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given; and the government shall be upon His shoulder: and His name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, the Mighty God, the Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace.—Isaiah 9:6.

Christmas is coming! It should be a blessed and delightful time this year. But do not fail to ask yourself, What is its true meaning? Why did Christ come? So that we could feast and celebrate? Surely not. He came first of all to be a Saviour; but do not forget that the Saviour is also the King of kings.

When Jesus came, His people Israel were practically without a government. They were a subject people under the rule of Rome. Their national life was in ruins; darkness had settled over their land, and there was both national and spiritual darkness. Christ came as their King, as well as the Light of the world. True, they rejected Him, and His kingdom is now in abeyance until He comes again to reign. One of these days He will come!

I. Darkness—but the Light Is Coming! (Isa. 9:2, 3).

When Jesus came there was deep darkness in Israel; there was no king. National honor and glory were at low ebb. Religious leaders had lost their spiritual vision and zeal. They were going through the form of godliness but denying its power. Read the book of Malachi for a picture of their desolation.

Then Jesus came, and the greatest Light of all time shone forth in the darkness. He was and is "the light of the world" (John 8:12). They that followed Him did not stumble in darkness (John 9:5; 11:9). How sad that they received Him not (John 1:11)! The reason? They loved darkness rather than light (John 3:17-21).

There is much darkness in our world today. We need the light of Jesus in national life, as well as in individual life. When will the nations of the earth recognize Him as the only One who can truly lead them through the darkness?

Military leaders, educators, and scientists are saying in our day that there must be a spiritual rebirth of the peoples of the earth if we are not to have another war which will destroy everything. No mere revival of "religion" will do it. We must have Jesus, the Saviour and the Light!

II. Chaos—but a King Is Coming (Isa. 9:6, 7).

We have already suggested that Isaiah's prophecy came at a time of chaos in the affairs of the nation. Would they ever have the order and dignity of a nation again? Who was to be their king? What kind of leader would He be? Our verses give the answer.

Seven hundred years before Christ came, the prophet presented a glorious, detailed picture of the coming One. He was to be born as a Babe—a Son—but the "government shall be upon his shoulder."

What kind of King is He? His names reveal Him.

"Wonderful"—that word has been so misused that it means comparatively little to us. It really fulfills its true meaning in Christ. He is unique, remarkable, yes, truly wonderful. "Counsellor"—in every detail of life, great or small, an infallible Guide. "Mighty God"—not just like God, or representing God; Christ is God. "Everlasting Father"—the tender and loving, unchanging One to whom time brings no change, for He is the "Father of eternity." "Prince of Peace"—He is not yet the Ruler of the nations of the world, hence we hear not only of wars but of rumors of wars. Mark it well that there will be no enduring peace until He comes to reign whose right it is to reign, the divine Prince of Peace.

III. Jesus Christ—the Light and the King (Luke 1:26-33).

If Christ is to be honored in the life of any nation, yes, of our nation, He must first be recognized as the Son of God, the Lord of glory, the everlasting King of kings.

We need to emphasize that fact now when both military and political leaders are talking about the need of spiritual revival to save the world. Let us be sure that they mean more than just to pay formal recognition to a great man and a distinguished moral teacher. He is the Saviour, and there is none other (Acts 4:12).

Note the marvelous fulfillment of prophecy which actually took place in the coming of Jesus. Isaiah (7:14) said He was to be born of a virgin. He was (v. 27)! He was to be the Son of God (Ps. 2:7). He was (v. 32)! And so on through all the detailed prophecies of His birth.

We celebrate the fulfillment of these prophecies at Christmas time. Let us be reminded that there are hundreds of prophecies that He is to come again. Let us believe them, and look for Him. He is the hope of this poor world!

Household Hints

Spare that brassiere by washing it after each day or two of wear. 'Twill last longer, fit better.

Try trimming an old whiskbroom into a sharp V-point for cleaning hard-to-get-at corners and crevices in furniture and floors.

A paste made of baking soda and water will remove coffee stains from enameled kitchen ware.

Inasmuch as nuts absorb moisture, they should be placed in boiling water for a few minutes before adding them to cake or bread dough. Otherwise they will make the baked product dry.

AN INNER SANCTUM MYSTERY
STARRING ARAB AND ANDY BLAKE WNU FEATURES

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lt. Andy Blake, Operations, was joined by his wife, Arab, who started to work for Ordnance in Washington. Andy had had a run in with Jones, who owned a house near Arab's. Andy searched the house and found reports and clippings that indicated Jones might be a German agent. Seeing Arab coming toward the house, to stop her and to prevent Jones from finding her, he attracted attention to himself by breaking the window. Jones came on and during the stalking of each other, Arab appeared and drew a gun on Jones. They escaped, and the next day Andy reported all facts to the FBI.

CHAPTER IX

"Bring the car tonight, Andy. I feel like going out. Maybe we can take a peek at the apartment. And come for me at seven."

"O. K. I'll show up around that time."

It was just seven when I stopped in front of the house on Q Street. Before I could get out of the car, Arab came down the front steps. She was almost skipping.

"Darling," she cried, "the timing was beautiful. Now we've got to move—fast!"

I said stupidly, "Huh?"

"This is a getaway, darling. Hurry up if you don't want us to be followed."

Butterflies began skipping in my stomach. Or maybe bats. It would be a night to remember, all right—a night for shots in the dark and groans and the whisper of stealthy feet. I knew Arab. When she acted that way it was no time to look for a love nest. It was a moment for diving into an air-raid shelter.

I swung away from the curb with yowling gears, grumbling, "What's the program?"

"First we go to your quarters, Andy."

I looked at her suspiciously. "O. K.," I said, "but I wish you meant it the way I was going to mean it."

"Why, Andy! Had you planned to take me there? Lovely!"

"The Crowleys are out for the evening and . . . and I thought we could go there and be alone and . . ."

Arab gave a sinister laugh. "We won't be alone," she said.

"Yeah," I muttered. "I was afraid of that."

Arab sat forward happily on the edge of the seat like a little girl telling a ghost story to her friends. I provided the circle of wide staring eyes. "It's like this," she said. "The master minds decided that there wasn't any spy angle, so I decided to dig up proof."

"You can have a front seat at my court-martial."

"They won't court-martial you if I'm right."

"I get it. The army shoots me if you're wrong. The spies shoot me if you're right. I got about as much future as a fruit fly."

She ignored me. "There are," she said, "sixteen girls in the house on Q Street. By an odd coincidence they're all from important branches of the government. By an odd coincidence we all have good jobs and like to chatter."

"I noticed that. A guy might think he'd wandered into the parrot house at the zoo."

"You're not getting the point, Andy. Don't you see that every girl in the place must have been carefully picked? There isn't one of us who doesn't hear important information during the day."

"You don't mean that you girls toss secret dope around, do you?"

"It's . . . it's hard to explain, Andy. I've never heard any of them consciously tell any secrets. But when you chatter a lot, things slip out. Little things. Things that might not mean anything to the average listener."

I stirred around in the dregs of my memory. "Wait a minute," I said. "That hunk of paper I picked up in the fat man's house. What were those two notes on it?"

"I memorized them," Arab said. "One was: 'Betty—I hope I can make it but we've been working late a lot of nights.' The other was: 'Genevieve—It's a wonder to me that trains don't get even more crowded these days, but maybe people are learning to stay home.' Are you interested to know that there's a girl named Betty in the house who works in Operations in the War Department? And one named Genevieve who works for the Transportation Corps?"

"Yeah, I'm interested."

"And can you figure anything out from those remarks when you know who made them?"

"I might," I said cautiously, "think that Operations was bringing something to a boil. I might think that troop movements had been increased."

"And do you think that Plain Mr. Jones and Joey Raeder might be interested?"

"Maybe."

"Oh, don't be so stodgy! Of course they're interested. They take little remarks like that and things they clip from newspapers and play jigsaw puzzle."

"Um. Kind of hard to prove."

"Hold onto your seat, big boy. I'm going to prove it. Tonight."

"Now wait, now wait. I'm not laughing it off. I'll turn in a report on it."

"Darling, you aren't going to have time to write any report. I elected you to be bait."

"Bait?"

"Uh-huh, bait. All week I've been keeping a diary. And every time I heard one of the girls drop an interesting remark, I noted it down. I have quite a collection. Some of it is junk but some looks intriguing."

"You framed me," I growled. "I wondered last week why you insisted on staying around the house every night. You did it so this story of yours would look good."

"Andy, don't get angry yet because that's only the start. I said you weren't taking all these notes directly for Counter-Intelligence but just sort of on your own and would take it up with Counter-Intelligence when you got a real collection of loose talk. I said you had all your notes at your quarters and had invited me to come up and see them tonight, but I giggled and said that it sounded just like a new way of asking a girl to come up and see your etchings and of course I wouldn't dream of going to your rooms. And after I finished, Joey got up and left the table very fast and Mrs. Fielding looked pale and then you came before anything could happen."

"Friends," I said, "let me introduce you to the Widow Blake."

"So," Arab said happily, "we're going to your quarters and wait in ambush."

"I'll be right with you—just as soon as I can run down to Fort Knox and borrow an Armored Division."

"Darling, if you think you can get help, I'm all for it."

That remark startled me. It was the first time Arab had ever admitted that we might need help in taking on a few dozen thugs. I tried to imagine how our story would develop.

I looked at her suspiciously. "O. K.," I said, "but I wish you meant it the way I was going to mean it."

"Why, Andy! Had you planned to take me there? Lovely!"

to undecieve her? "Sure," I said, "bring on your spies."

I turned the car off the lane and through a cowpath gap in the hedge, and drove bumpily back over the meadow, paralleling the lane, as far as possible. That left the car far enough away from the cottage to escape anything but a real search. We walked the remaining few hundred yards to the Crowley place and found it quiet and deserted.

Arab looked around the living room, and said, "Maybe I ought to yell for the U. S. Marines."

A fifth of Scotch, two highball glasses, and a silver basket-weave bottle of carbonated water stood on the table. Beside them a sign lettered ICE pointed to the kitchen. Bill Crowley's dragon-embroidered dressing gown hung on one chair, while Ellen Crowley's wickedest pink negligee was on another. A little trail of rice led upstairs. The Crowleys were cute.

"Let the Marines get their own girls," I growled. "This is one situation the army has well in hand."

"It might take them a while to find this place. If you played your cards right you might be able to hold my hand."

"Take it easy. We have a job to do. I could not love thee, dear, so much loved I not honor more. Tennyson."

"It isn't. It's Lovelace, Richard. Sixteen-something to sixteen-something. Do you really think we can't snatch a minute?"

"Yeah. Let's see your notes."

I picked up the notebook and sheaf of typed paper, taking care not to disturb the artillery. "Bring the rest and let's go to the cellar," I said.

"Can't we stay here?"

I began pulling down the shades on the first floor, and explained, "No use letting any lights show. The cellar has blackout shades."

We turned out the lights and went downstairs, closing the cellar door behind us. It might be an unnecessary precaution, like hiding the car, but nobody ever shot himself by making a detour around an unloaded gun. I adjusted the blackout shades over the cellar windows. We settled down in a couple of wicker chairs and I began reading the typed translation of Arab's notes. She had done quite a job. Apparently she had never stopped taking notes from the time of our wild bus ride, nearly two weeks ago, right up to and including breakfast that morning. There were dozens of quotes on everybody in the house.

I went back to the beginning of Arab's notes and read them again. This time I checked every quote with a list which identified the job held by each girl. When I finished, my skin was prickling. Something was there. I couldn't see anything but I could feel it.

We divided the pages and spread them over the ping-pong table. We went through them like prospectors hunting for gold—except that instead of a thrill you got a shudder when you hit something. We jotted down notes that fit the pattern on pages torn from the back of Arab's notebook, and scribbled comments about the remarks. We traded items and tossed some away after a discussion and went back and got others that we'd passed up at first. Probably we missed things because we didn't have the necessary background knowledge to interpret them, but that couldn't be helped.

When I finished reading I could feel Arab trembling against me. I swallowed, and it was like downing gravel. "Nobody mentioned D-Day," I growled. "That's a hell of a thing. We're going to put the enemy to the trouble of finding out all by himself when we land in North Africa."

"Andy, I'm so scared I don't quite know what all these notes mean."

"They mean a huge operation. Witness V-mail, a lot of Silver Stars, many cargo ships being collected, lots of maps and big demand for oil."

"And how much points to North Africa?"

"Pocket guide to North Africa, maps probably using Arabic place names, Admiral Darlan, pyrethrum, First Armored Division trained for desert warfare, goggles and mosquito bars, iodine in water, narrow-gauge railroads, report on scorpions, and battleship Jean Bart. The battleship even gives us one landing place: Casablanca. But since the real desert is farther east, it sounds like landings over a long coastline."

"A lot of those things show we're going in to stay, don't they? What else have we found out?"

"Well, it's a joint operation, army-navy. The boys climb down cargo nets into Higgins landing boats, grab beach heads, build airfields with airborne equipment, throw new tank destroyers at Germans. Among those present will be the First Armored Division, the First Infantry division, now in England, and the Thirty-fourth Infantry Division. We catch Rommel in a vise between the invasion forces and the British Eighth Army from Egypt."

"It's all right to say it sounds thrilling, isn't it, Andy?"

"It sounds thrilling to tell a guy you're going to smack him in the jaw. But sometimes it works out better to smack him first."

"There isn't a chance we could be having bad dreams?"

'Great Swallow' Fish Has an Extra Stomach

The "great swallow"—a fish that is only nine inches long—has an extra stomach to take care of food greater than the capacity of its normal stomach, scientists say.

Wrapped up neatly inside the fish's regular stomach is an elastic extra pouch, which expands like a balloon when the fish swallows an object larger than itself. The great swallow lives in deep water, 1,800 to 9,000 feet deep, and scientists are still wondering how it can stand the great pressure at that depth.

It's the "CENTER BITE" of Firestone GROUND GRIPS that helps You Do
MORE WORK

ONLY one tractor tire has the patented "Center Bite" tread design . . . that's the Firestone Ground Grip. This "Center Bite" will give your tractor up to 16% more pull at the drawbar. That's because the triple-braced bars cross at the very heart of the traction zone where the center of your load falls. And it doesn't catch trash and clog up like open-center treads.

But the extra pull of a "Center Bite" Ground Grip tire is not its only advantage. It has a 40% longer tread life and the cord body is 14% stronger. That is why more farmers use Firestone Ground Grips than any other make.

You will find that you can save time, money and do a better job of farming with Firestone Ground Grips . . . the only tires with the "Center Bite."

*Area in white shows the "Center Bite" traction zone; not found in other tires because of Firestone's exclusive patent rights.

Word has come from Cpl. Marvin Vogt that he is now at Morioka, Japan.

He has been at Yokohama, Tokyo and Sandai in Japan and says all these cities have been heavily bombed.

The Japs in the smaller cities are living better than in the larger cities for they can grow their own food in their gardens, and have rice fields, so that food is more plentiful.

Marvin's wish is a "Merry Christmas to all."

Dividend Printing

There is one kind of printing that you want—printing that pays a dividend on the investment.

A letterhead with right sort of type properly balanced is a real business asset. It wins the approval of the person receiving your letter, and while he is in this frame of mind your letter is read.

The same reasoning applies to any other job of printing. Neatness, the right weight and kind of paper, the color of the ink, the selection of the type, all play an important part in the production of dividend printing.

We are equipped to give you that kind of printing. Let us prove it to you.

Mokena in September
Mokena is a country place,
Mokena has a lovely face
Of trees and grass and flowers sweet,
And little houses trim and neat.
If I could choose a home for me
Mokena's where I'd like to be,
When lovely lilting country air
Its summer's sunshine fragrance bears.
Oh, why forever must I roam
When dear Mokena lures me home?
On California's shores I tarry,
But Mokena in my heart I'll carry.

Miami Winter Tour: Between December 26th and January 20th free gas and oil will be furnished to properly registered pilots flying to and from Miami, Florida. If you use a plane of one hundred and twenty five horsepower or under, here's how to get details. Write the manufacturer of your plane. A well known gas and oil company makes this offer to encourage cross country flying. The year before the war twelve hundred planes made the trip. A big "come hither" in Miami is the All American Air Maneuvers scheduled for January 4th, 5th and 6th. Details on the maneuvers can be had by writing "Al" Hansen, 221 N. E. 2nd St., Miami, Fla.

Checkpoint: According to experts, cross ocean flying is safer than walking Chicago's loop streets. One airline has flown a billion miles in the last 3 years, without a fatal accident! President Truman considers Aviation the most important subject today.

X-Country: Last Saturday, I decided with my observer, to hop from Rubinkam Airport to Harlem Airport. Our Cub was propped by a flyer, Frank Levy, and the wind whistled a merry tune with the motor as I revved it up. We quickly left the runway into the clear, crisp winter sky. With a tail wind "spanking" the Cub, we were over the Harlem Airport at 83rd St. in less than ten minutes. It looked water logged, so I circled and we watched a plane take off to see how things went. It hit a puddle and threw a spray of water high in the air, so we stayed in the air, too!

We decided to skip Harlem, and try Ashburn airport, at 83rd and Cicero. Ashburn Airport: We dragged the N. S. runway, flying over it at about 50 feet. It looked high and dry. So I made a power-on landing. The runway was smooth and fast, also. But when I made our left hand ground turn we were in soggy ground. Taxing to the hanger, I tried to swish the Cub around the water holes. But "she" got "her" wheels wet, and almost stuck a few times. After "perching" the Cub on the line to dry, we went into the East Hanger to get acquainted. Carl Vaughn runs the Flying School there, but he was up checking a students landings. However, we heard that Gordon Thomas, Manager of Ashburn and General Air Service, was on the airport ground. He's stationed in the cozy Flight Office at the West side of the field. Wanting to get the low down on the "higher ups" at Ashburn, we walked across the field and found ourselves ankle deep in water. We would have waded if it weren't so cold. At the flight office we spotted Instructor Bill Armstrong, who formerly instructed at Rubinkam, and there met Gordon Thomas. They gave us a grand "hello" and we began "hanger talking."

Oldest 'Port in Chicago. Ashburn hanger was built in 1915, and the Gov-lighting facilities. Two runways, one erment used it before going to Chanute. Gordon Thomas who has Pilot License 293, told us Octave Chanute was president of the famous Illinois Aero Club that used to meet at Ashburn. In those days many men in Chicago's "blue book" among them Curtiss, Wrigley and Spaulding sponsored local flyers. As Gordon Thomas talked flying lore, he fed his dog Tuffy, grapes, and said Tuffy likes to fly too. If Tuffy's master doesn't take her along on flights, she begs rides from other pilots. Ashburn now has about 50 students, and is the base for thirty planes.

Data for Pilots: Flight approach pattern: 180 degrees from 700 feet. No N. S., one E. W., both 1600 feet long and 80 feet wide. In rainy weather, advise staying on the runways.

Back at Rubinkam: After leaving the runway at Ashburn, and a pleasant trip against the wind, we spotted Rubinkam. "Home" port looked mighty good. The entire field is high and dry, when other fields hereabouts are like sponges. I landed and we went into Flight Office. And there encountered a lot of the swell Rubinkam gang. Among the crowd was Civil Air Patrol 2nd Lt. Jack Morton and wife Agnes, Warrant Officer Cy Knudsen (who was just about ready to go up in Cub 51), Frank Levy, Instructor Roy Cleveland and Instructor Ray Starzyk. Which reminds me to remind you, instruction in night flying is now available at Rubinkam by appointment. As we drove away, Cy dipped her wings to us in farewell.

That's all for now.

Sale of Christmas Seals Helps Raise An Important Fund

The yearly Tuberculosis Seals have been sent out a week or so ago and it is again our privilege to contribute to this worthy cause.

The funds the Will County Tuberculosis Association raised last year were used for Health Education on tuberculosis through the medium of pamphlets literature, movies, posters, and speakers at meetings. Also, the Association conducts a Visiting Nurse program and assists in the operation of bi-monthly clinics.

This year the Association will continue its Health Education and Visiting Nurse program, plus offering x-ray surveys to schools and industries. We have on order, and expect delivery in December, a Mobile x-ray Unit that will enable us to offer this service to each school and industry. This service will be free and on a voluntary basis to the participant.

The Mobile Unit and its operation, the Health Education programs, and the Will County Tuberculosis Visiting Nurse are entirely financed through the sale of tuberculosis Christmas seals and your donations. Have you made your contribution?

Building a rural telephone line using the new high strength steel wire

NEW ROADS FOR YOUR VOICE TO TRAVEL

New ways have been found to extend telephone service to more farm families.

One of them is a new steel wire so strong that far fewer poles are needed per mile. Another is an insulated wire that can be buried directly in the ground.

These are two of the new developments in farm telephone service that we are now starting to put in use. They are part of Illinois Bell's $3,000,000 rural telephone program to provide more and better telephone service for thousands of farm families.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Burnett spent the past week in Chicago with their daughter Mrs. M. E. Hansen.

Dr. Henke, well known physician in this territory, left for China last Sunday. He will resume his work as a Medical Missionary, which was interrupted by the war. His family will live with Mrs. Henke's mother, Mrs. Adella Pad-splend interview we had recently with Emory Fulton of Tinley Park. It is the consensus of all our readers, that these articles are most interesting and they also think it very good health to be removed from the hospital where he has been for many weeks and is at the home of his parents in Angola, Ind.

Lt. Francis Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Peterson, has re-enlisted for another eighteen months in the Army, following his recent discharge from service. The Peterson family, who now live in Joliet, were Homer residents for many years, and Francis attended the Hadley district school. He expects to be stationed in the states.

Reed L. Burch, AMM3-c has recently been transferred from Portland, Me., to Norfolk, Va.

The Norfolk Woman's Club met in the home of Miss Ida Harrington in Lockport, Wednesday, Dec. 12. A delicious dinner, at noon, was followed by a Christmas program consisting of Christmas songs by the group, Bible reading by Miss Myra Reed, a story by Mrs. Jessie Trask and a poem by Mrs. Evelyn Depra. A gift exchange, appropriate games and a social hour completed a very enjoyable day.

Emory Fulton Saw Plenty Action In French Invasion

This week we are happy to report a splendid interview interview we had recently with Emory Fulton of Tinley Park. It is the consensus of all our readers, that these articles are most interesting and they think it very fine of the servicemen to give an interview. We know it is good of them and we do like to have them come and visit us.

Emory is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Fulton of Tinley Park and was inducted into the service before Pearl Harbor, on June the 19th, 1941. He trained in this country more than two years with the 3rd armored Division Tank outfit, he being Supply Sergeant. On Sept. 5, 1943 he sailed with this outfit on the USS John Erickson, with 8,000 other service men, from New York City and landed at Liverpool, England Sept. 15th. They were sent at once to Warmington, England to a training center where they stayed until June 1, 1944 when they again sailed, on an LST boat from Weymouth, England and landed on Omaha Beach, in Normandy, France.

Often times those sailing on an LST had to make their landing by driving or wading through the sea water, as the tide was in, but this was not the case with Emory and his group, as the tide was out, and they drove the tanks to the beach on dry land. They went about 18 miles inland to a small assembling area, where they were kept busy for two weeks in preparing and assembling their equipment for action further ahead.

When all was ready, they left and went to Arel, France and there entered into their first combat action joining with Gen. Hodges First Army. Emory was in continuous action for about one year. They were the boys who were in the fierce battle of St. Lo, France, and when they had won the battle, St. Lo, as we all well know by reports, was completely destroyed. They met there, many of the German heavy tanks, the Mark 5 and 6, called the Panther and Tiger which are the largest German tanks.

After St. Lo, was cleaned up of the enemy, they pressed forward and next the heaviest fighting was at the Siegfried line which they succeeded in crossing at Eupen, Germany. Emory was on a half track when he crossed the Line at which time he was acting as Communication Sergeant. During all this time of battle, they would fight for 2 or three weeks and then be relieved at which time they would go to the rear for a week of rest. Their food of course was the famous K and C rations with a hot meal once a week.

After the rest period they again joined their group and pressed forward. They crossed the Rhine and Elba rivers but Emory and his group did not get to Berlin, as VE day was declared when they were about 100 miles from that city, and then they pulled back to Morfelden, Germany where they stayed until June, 1945. At Morfelden, they celebrated VE day. They found two cows which their camp cooks barbecued and was it Good!

Their music for this celebration was furnished by a concertina, they had been also, but it wasn't good.

In June they were transferred from the 3rd Armored Division to the 703rd Tank Destroyers Battalion when they were sent to Herfeld, Germany where they joined the 69th Infantry Division and then crossed the English Channel to South Hampton from where they sailed on September 15th for home it being just exactly two years to the very day that he landed in England. They sailed home on the Queen Elizabeth with 15,800 men abroad and landed in New York.

It was eight o'clock at night, when at last they saw what they had been waiting for all the time, the Statue of Liberty, and when it came into view all the men aboard gave a loud and long cheer.

I wonder if we at home could possibly know what that did mean to the returning service men. After they had been gone from home so long a time, and through such hazardous and fierce fighting, to really be on their way home. And when the Statue came into sight, it really did mean they were home. Words cannot express the thoughts of such a moment.

To Camp Kilmer, New Jersey. Emory went and from there to Ft. Sheridan, when he was given a 7 day furlough to come home. He returned to the Port at the end of that short furlough and received his Honorable Discharge October 2nd and then home for good, to Tinley Park.

Emory's ribbons are: Pre-Pearl Harbor; ETO with five battle stars, Good Conduct, Bronze Star, 3rd Armored Div. Patch; four service stripes and now the discharge button. He brought home several souvenirs and many pictures which he took. And after being gone so long from the old home town, he is glad to be home and he too does not want to leave it again and has started into business with his brother-in-law, Howard Mager in the Cleaning business known as the F and M Cleaners, and the good wishes of the community go to these two men for success in their peaceful undertaking.

ANN RUTLEDGE SCHOOL NEWS

For the first time this year we took time to decorate our windows and room.

Our Christmas party this year will be for school children in the afternoon and for pre-school children in the morning.

Richard Vaughn, Rosamari Schaeper, Ethel Wieber, Freda Heavener and Ruth Schaeper attended the Junior Red Cross meeting at St. John's school in Joliet. Richard Vaughn read the report of our school's activities for George Letts who was kept home because of illness. Rosamari Schaeper spoke in favor of permitting fifth graders to be delegates to the council meetings. They took with them our Christmas production which consists of four twelve inch Christmas trees, 4 eighteen inch Christmas trees, fifty two nut cups, twelve Christmas decorations, and eleven carol book covers. Mrs. Hattie Wieber chaperoned the party.

A fourth of our school is absent because of illness. Before and after school and all the noon hour children are busy making ready for Christmas.

The first grade wrote their letters to Santa Claus last Friday.

Wilbur Goering came in this morning with a pocket full of money. His brother Helmut, came home from Japan.

Already stockings are hanging from our blackboard ledge. Santa will have to come now.

Even though we are as crowded as the "Old Woman in the Shoe" we have a Christmas tree. It is the joy of the eighth grade to decorate the tree. It wouldn't seem like Christmas here without the tree.

Jimmy Hauser is proud and happy.

He has made a perfect record in arithmetic the last two weeks.

George Edstrom, Shirley Heavener, the Higley children and the Jefferies are absent due to illness.

Mary Vaughn is back in school after a two weeks visit with her grand parents in Wisconsin.

George Letts, Gloria Ott, Tommy Taylor, Shirley and Nancy Boze and Rosalie Arnold were back in school Monday morning.

Marena Burian visited her father in Chicago over the weekend. He just returned from overseas.

The Gatter family visited Mrs. Gatter's parents Sunday.

We miss Thomas Vaughn. Everyone is busy getting ready for the Bake sale and Bazaar.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, December 9, was:

"GOD THE ONLY CAUSE AND CREATOR"

The Golden Text was:

"Thus saith the Lord that created the heavens; God himself that formed the earth and made it; he hath established it, he created it not in vain, he formed it to be inhabited: I am the Lord; and there is none else" (Isa. 45: 18).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible:

"I am the Lord: that is my name: and my glory will I not give to another, neither my praise to graven images . . . I, even I, am the Lord; and beside me there is no saviour. I have declared, and have saved, and I have shewed, when there was no strange god among you: therefore ye are my witnesses, saith the Lord, that I am God" (Isa. 42: 8; Isa. 43: 11, 12).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:

"Believe in a material basis, from which may be deduced all rationality, is slowly yielding to the idea of a metaphysical basis, looking away from matter to Mind as the cause of every effect. . . . Divine Mind is the only cause or Principle of existence. Cause does not exist in matter, in mortal mind, or in physical forms. . . . God is the divine Principle of all that represents Him and of all that really exists." (pp. 268, 262, 272.)

X-Rays on the Job

When war workers are too busy to go to the clinic, the clinic comes to them. Mobile chest X-ray units visit industrial plants for mass X-raying of workers. By means of the X-ray tuberculosis can be discovered in its early stages when no symptoms are evident. However, before symptoms appear the health of the individual can be wrecked and the health of his fellow workers endangered. Christmas Seal funds finance mass X-ray surveys.

Chosen One Showed The Badge of Industry

Canny young Jean was a wonderful aid to her mother when time came to start the new Victory garden. She proved it the very first day.

Mother was seeking an industrious, energetic man to help her do the planting. Two men came to apply for the job. Jean looked them over solemnly and then advised her mother to engage the little one.

"Why not the big man?" mother whispered.

"No," objected Jean, "he's got a patch on the seat of his pants. Hire the other one—his patches are on his knees!"

JAMES LOUIS SMITH, Managing Director

Forty-Five years ago it was inevitable that another big league baseball club would come along to divide patronage with the National that had been in operation for 24 years. So the American League arrived.

It has been just as inevitable that another new football league would come along the same road. Now the battle of the pro leagues is already under way, although the new All-American outfit won't take to the field until 1946.

In the earlier and perhaps the later milling of this gridiron war, a large number of pocketbooks are going to be badly dented or flattened out. Only four teams have ever made any money to date in the National—New York, Washington, Chicago Bears and Green Bay. The others together have lost well over a million dollars.

But in spite of this there is no longer any questioning or doubting the fact that the new league is already here. Jimmy Crowley's circuit has signed up many smart coaches who couldn't have been lured away by anything less than protected financial guarantees. The new circuit has already signed up too many good college football players—Bertelli, Bill Daley, George Franck, Glen Dobbs, Otto Graham and others, to back out now. The new league has paid out too much money already to quit.

What will happen later, you might ask? For one thing the good college football players will benefit tremendously in a financial way.

Battle of Pocketbooks

For another thing, with greatly increased salaries, bonuses and what not, there will be a big drop in profits all around. Even as things have been, it takes an attendance of some 20,000 to break even.

It will be a battle of pocketbooks and bank accounts for some time to come. The National League can't afford to let its rival grab all the leading stars, for such men as Hutson, Baugh and Luckman have been largely responsible for big crowds. There will be enough good football players to go around, but there are never enough outstanding stars or actual gate builders.

What will happen later on? It is our opinion that after a series of painful sorties on the bankrolls involved, there will eventually be two major football leagues with eight teams in each circuit.

Some cities now on trial may fail to stand up or to show their enthusiasm for pro football on the needed scale. This is still true of big league baseball today where more than one or two big league cities should be replaced by others and where there should be some shifts in two-club centers that can only carry one club. New York, Chicago and Philadelphia can handle two major league football clubs. Granted the new league intends to hustle and put up a hard fight, there will probably be a football civil war for about a year, as there was in baseball when the young American League raided the National and took away many of its better players.

Bonanza for Players

Neither league can afford this type of competition long. It will be a wonderful thing for the players and coaches, but more than most of the club owners can face without going broke. Any number of good football players will be emerging from war service this winter and spring and many more will be graduating from college next June. Most of these will go with the team which offers most.

There is one point that both leagues should watch. This is, taking good care that they don't cross up the colleges or start raiding college teams. The colleges are now far stronger than the pros, considering the entire map, and they should remain that way. They are the foundation of football. There are or will be less than 20 pro league teams. There are over 200 college teams that appeal to more than 10,000 college players.

The present National League arrangement of taking in no player until his college class has graduated should be maintained by both leagues. After all such teams as Army, Navy, Pennsylvania, Southern California, Ohio State, Michigan and Minnesota, to mention only a few, far outdraw any professional outfit. Army and Notre Dame, Army and Navy games could each play to 300,000 spectators if there was only space enough.

Overlooked Old-Timers

During Ty Cobb's recent visit east the talk got around to some of the great ones of the past who are generally overlooked.

"For example," Ty said, "there was Kid Nichols of Boston, St. Louis and Philadelphia. Kid Nichols was one of the greatest pitchers of all time, but how many even remember his name today?"

I happened to recall some 40 years ago the admiration Christy Mathewson had for Nichols.

EX ORE INFANTUM

LITTLE Jesus, wast thou shy
Once, and just so small as I?
And what did it feel like to be
Out of Heaven, and just like me?
Didst Thou sometimes think of "there,"

And ask where all the angels were?
I should think that I would cry
For my house all made of sky;
I would look about the air,
And wonder where my angels were;
And at waking 'twould distress me—
Not an angel there to dress me!

HADST Thou ever any toys,
Like us little girls and boys?
And didst Thou play in Heaven with all
The angels, that were not too tall,
With stars for marbles? Did the things

Play "Can you see me?" through their wings?
Didst Thou kneel at night to pray,
And didst Thou join Thy hands, this way?

And didst they tire sometimes, being young,
And make the prayer seem very long?
And dost Thou like it best, that we Should join our hands to pray to Thee?

I used to think, before I knew,
The prayer not said unless we do.
And didst Thy Mother at the night
Kiss Thee, and fold the clothes in right?

And didst Thou feel quite good in bed,
Kissed, and sweet, and Thy prayers
said?

THOU canst not have forgotten all
That it feels like to be small:
And Thou know'st I cannot pray
To Thee in my father's way—
When Thou wast so little, say,
Couldst Thou talk Thy Father's way?

So, a little Child, come down
And hear a child's tongue like Thy own;

Take me by the hand and walk,
And listen to my baby-talk.

To Thy Father show my prayer
(He will look, Thou art so fair),
And say: "O Father, I, Thy Son,
Bring the prayer of a little one."

AND He will smile, that children's tongue
Has not changed since Thou wast
young!

—Francis Thompson

First Christmas Tree of Christkind

Christkind, whose name has been modified into Kriss Kringle, brings gifts and happiness to German children at Christmas time.

St. Nicholas comes around, in Germany, on his liturgical feast day—December 6—his pockets bulging with apples and nuts and trinkets, well and good; but, since the central idea of Christmas concerns the birth of Christ, Christkind brings the Christmas tree and presents.

Christkind is not the Infant Jesus himself, he is a messenger sent by the Holy Child.

Once upon a time a wood cutter and his family lived at the edge of a great forest. The family was very poor; nevertheless, when a strange child appeared before their hut one Christmas Eve he was hospitably received and tucked into the warmest bed.

The sound of heavenly voices awakened the household at midnight. Looking out of the window, they saw the child they had harbored clad in radiance and surrounded by a choir of angels.

Revealing his identity, the child called attention to a Fir Tree which stood nearby resplendently decorated with lights and apples, silver nuts and threads of gold.

"I am Christkind," he said. "My emblem shall be this Fir Tree which shall bring Christmas happiness to good children."

Heathen Mistletoe

The churches have never sanctioned the use of mistletoe in the decoration of a religious edifice because of its heathen origin. There are 800 varieties of mistletoe grown in various parts of the world. Some species have bright red or orange flowers and purple fruit. The New England mistletoe is so small a plant that botanists overlooked it until 1871. It is a parasite which may kill its host tree. The mistletoe is deep in legends of interest.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This newspaper, through special arrangement with the Washington Bureau of Western Newspaper Union at 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., is able to bring readers this weekly column on problems of the veteran and serviceman and his family. Questions may be addressed to the above Bureau and they will be answered in a subsequent column. No replies can be made direct by mail, but only in the column which will appear in this newspaper regularly.

New Discharge Plan

The army has followed the lead of navy in ruling, as of November 10, that any G.I. with three children under 18 years of age is eligible for discharge, despite age or length of service.

At the same time the army lowered total points for discharge eligibility to 55. These two new rulings answer many questions which have come into the office of the Veterans' Service Bureau editor in Washington during the past week from throughout the nation.

In the meantime, the Veterans' administration has announced a streamline procedure in its finance office with the appointment of Frank W. Kelsey as assistant administrator in charge of the Veterans' multi-billion dollar finance service. At the present time, according to Veterans' headquarters, the treasury department is issuing checks at the rate of $28,000,000 per year upon authority of vouchers certified by the Veterans' administration finance service. This branch of the administration service is the watchdog and clearing house for the billions of dollars handled, representing disbursements for government life insurance, pensions and other benefits provided veterans and their dependents.

Questions and Answers

Q. I'm the widow of a World War I veteran and am getting a pension of only $30 per month. Why is it a widow of a World War II veteran receives $50 monthly pension? Mrs. W. K., Charlottesville, Va.

A. All widows of both World War I and II get pensions of $50 per month if their husbands were killed in action or died while in service. If the veteran died after he was discharged, the pension is $30 per month.

Q. My son is in a navy hospital in Washington, D. C., with a broken knee, suffered when he was thrown from an automobile while on a 72-hour leave. Will he be able to get a pension if he was on leave at the time of the mishap? After he is discharged he wants to enter an undertaking school. Does that require a high school education? Mrs. P., Cumberland, Md.

A. The Veterans' administration says that merely because a man is on leave at the time of an injury does not mean that he is barred from obtaining disability payments. The navy will have to determine if the injury was received in the line of duty which may or may not be while on leave. If the injury was received through no misconduct of the veteran, the chances are he will be entitled to disability pension. The undertaking profession is counted as vocational training and the veteran does not necessarily have to be a high school graduate.

Q. I will be discharged from the army soon. I would like to know the names and locations of some schools that teach refrigeration and air conditioning, practical experience along with the studies. W. W. S., Washington, N. J.

A. The Veterans' administration advises that you consult an army counsellor at a separation center or write directly to your nearest Veterans' administration regional office.

Q.—I want to know if a man who has been court-martialed has a chance to get out if he has three little children. My allotment has stopped and has been for some time. Mrs. N. M. S., Blairsville, Ga.

A. The war department says it would depend upon the nature of your husband's offense whether he can be released or not. Suggest that you write the Judge Advocate General, War department, Washington, D. C., and give all details concerning your husband.

Q. My son made an allotment to me of $15 per month the first year, which I received. The three and a half years he has spent overseas I have not received it. It was taken out of his pay up to the month of his discharge. Where shall I write in regard to collecting the amount due? T. G. W., Milwaukee, Wis.

A. Write to the Office of Dependency Benefits, War department, Newark, N. J.

Q. How many points does a marine need to be discharged? Does a marine need the same points as the navy or the army? Mrs. J. F., Sturgeon Lake, Minn.

A. As of Nov. 10 a marine needs 50 points for discharge.

Q. My husband was killed in action in Italy, June 12, 1944, and I have never received any information as to how he was killed. Is it possible to obtain this information? Wife, M. E. H., Kosciusko, Miss.

A. Write to the Casualty branch of the Adjutant General's office, War department, Washington, D. C.

To Save Money, Mix Your Cough Relief at Home

So Easy! No Cooking. Quick Relief.

Even if you're not interested in saving good money, you surely want a really effective relief for coughs due to colds. So try mixing it yourself, in your kitchen, and be ready for a surprise.

It's so easy to mix, a child could do it. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed. Or use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Then fill up with your syrup. This makes a pint—about four times as much for your money. It tastes good—children really like it. It lasts a family a long time, and never spoils.

But what you'll like most is the way it takes right hold of a cough. It loosens the phlegm, soothes irritation, and helps clear the air passages. Eases soreness, and let's you sleep. You'll say you've never seen its superior.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for its quick action on throat and bronchial irritations. Try it, and if you're not really delighted, your money will be refunded. —Adv.

SNAPPY FACTS about RUBBER

A synthetic rubber developed entirely from petroleum gases is now being used in the manufacture of truck-tire inner tubes. Called Butyl, the new synthetic provides an extra margin of safety against puncture, holds air much longer.

Since Pearl Harbor, the United States has produced as much synthetic rubber as the entire world's supply of natural rubber for the 18 years from 1900 through 1918.

The rubber industry's pre-war capacity of 65,000,000 tires a year has been increased to more than 110,000,000 civilian tires annually.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work--do not act as Nature intended--fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes--a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!
